In regard to the discussion of congestion of Bend's roads, you state "there is no way to keep it from becoming more congested." Why do you keep approving new subdivisions when the infrastructure isn't ready for the growth? I know only one native over the age of 60 who thinks Bend is more livable than it was forty years ago. My sons were born here in the 1970's and they are ready to move.

It appears the developers and growth industry have too much to say about growth in Bend. Perhaps, a complete change of city council would be a good thing.
